THE DAY WE CELEBRATE

Crowds Go to the Seashore—Picnic at Verdugo Park a Success

It is doubtful if anywhere in the United States the people were more highly favored by the weather department than the dwellers in this section. There was a delightful breeze stirring all day and the mercury staid among the lower eighties. The city fathers removed the restrictions prohibiting the firing of crackers and Young America enjoyed noise to the utmost of his almost unlimited capacity. Everybody celebrated somehow. The man who is compelled by circumstances to absent himself from home six days in the week availed himself of the opportunity, in many instances, to stay at home and dig. But the great crowds went to the seashore and it is a matter of wonderment that as far as the returns have been received, they all returned alive. The city was almost deserted, but "Old Glory" was very generally in evidence.

At Verdugo Park.

Not for several years have the people of Glendale and Tropic gone to Verdugo Park (now "Forest Grove Park," if you please), for a picnic as they were wont to do in years gone by. During the most of those years the park has been closed to the public. Many improvements have been made in the interval, the underbrush being cleared out and the paths and roads improved greatly. Still along willow fringed banks flow the sparkling waters of Verdugo creek to the pipe a short distance below that conducts them into the valley reservoirs. The sycamores have grown so that the shade is more general than in years past and altogether Verdugo Park is a delightful resort. It was found to be such by the people, young, old and otherwise who wended their way thither as best they could Monday morning, carrying their lunch baskets. Two horse teams made trips between Glendale and the Park and went up with full loads, but the most of those present went by private conveyance, many going afoot.

The forenoon was a "go-as-you-please," the youngsters played ball, and the elders loafed. There was an abundance of the best lemonade for everybody and an ample luncheon at noon, served on the tables with which the park is provided. At 2 o'clock the patriotic exercises of the day took place. The arrangements were very informal. Edgar Leavitt, Esq., was president of the day. He called upon Rev. Utter of the Christian church who made a prayer. Mr. Leavitt then spoke briefly and to the point, enjoining upon his hearers the lesson of patriotism and reminding them of the debt due to the makers of the Declaration of Independence and their fellow patriots. He called upon Mr. J. C. Sherer, who responded in a five-minute speech in which he expressed his belief in an "old-fashioned Fourth of July" and in the "old-fashioned brand of statesmen who framed our constitution. Gen. F. C. Prescott, ex-speaker of the California assembly, the speaker of the day, was then introduced. Gen. Prescott expressed his pleasure in visiting Glendale and delivered a speech of an hour's duration which was replete with patriotic and appropriate thoughts expressed in vigorous and eloquent sentences. He endeavored to impress upon his auditors the idea that this is a government of the people, by the people and that as long as the people take a proper part in their own affairs all will be well with the republic. A number of his points were heartily applauded and he afterwards expressed himself as greatly pleased with the reception accorded him. Mr. Frazee led in the singing of "America," after which the people left for their respective homes, generally impressed with the idea of a restful day well spent. Among those present at the park we noticed Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cook, Mrs. E. W. Richardson, Mr. W. R. Pratt, Mr. Dwight Griswold of Tropic.

AN ERROR CORRECTED.

The NEWS was in error last week in its report of the whist party at Masonic hall in using the name of M. Z. Romsburgh. He informs us that he had nothing whatever to do with the evening's entertainment, did not know it was going to happen or that it had happened until he read the report in the NEWS, and that he objects to having his name used in connection with the party.

HOW WE SPENT THE FOURTH.

(For the News)

Hurrying home from church we made a hearty though hasty dinner, packed a few necessities, including sandwiches and jam tarts, into knapsacks and donning suitable attire boarded the 2:20 car from Glendale, thence to Sierra Madre, en route for Mt. Wilson, arriving at the foot of the trail soon after four rather warm, but full of enthusiasm, reinforced later on by cherries and lemon drops. Then began the real thing, the climb upward, and as every one we met took pains to inform us, we had a hard walk ahead, but that was exactly what we went for, and we took it very leisurely, stopping often to rest and admire the picturesque beauty of the trail, the lovely pines, sycamores, live oaks, enormous yuccas, numerous waterfalls and at every turn of the path fresh vistas opened up of splendid peaks and gorges, and the valley beneath, ever farther and farther away. At the half-way house we rested and partook of coffee and sandwiches, etc., and how good everything did taste! At 6:45 rested and refreshed, we resumed our upward march. The trail from there on is pretty steep, but we made good progress till darkness overtook us and we had to travel more slowly. However, the kindly moon soon rose, making everything enchantingly lovely, and lighting our path very well. We arrived at the summit about 9:30, tired but happy, and took possession of the two jolly little cottages we had previously engaged. Soon thereafter we were enjoying well-earned repose.

Breakfast at 7:30 next morning demanded and received prompt attention, as some of us had arisen at 4:30 to see the rising of the great orb of day. The meal was served in the pretty dining room of the hotel with its many windows affording glimpses of magnificent bits of scenery all around one, and the gay camaraderie that was at once established amongst the guests most of them khaki-clad, and all on pleasure bent, was very delightful. Of course, we sent off picture postcards—every one does—and that done, we wandered about to the different points of interest, took pictures, read and lazied to our heart's content in a shady spot carpeted with pine needles. In this pleasant manner the day slipped by all too soon, and it was time to depart, which we did immediately after supper, leaving the hotel at 6:30 p. m., and arriving at the half-way house in a little over an hour; we rested ten minutes and went on much more slowly, as it was dark and hard travelling. A fellow wayfarer who had joined us coming down and left us at the half-way house, we came up with again, in somewhat of a plight, waiting anxiously for us at a dangerous part of the trail, where it was pitch dark, and he had not even a match. Moral, it is always better to be a smoker. He told us he had crawled down on his hands and knees and had heard a wild beast in the jungle behind him, which he tried to scare by yelling. In this he presumably succeeded, as we neither saw or heard anything of said beast. And by the aid of friendly matches managed to proceed, reaching the foot of the trail somewhat the worse for wear, footsore and weary certainly, but willing to do it all over again, and feeling that the pleasure was well worth the exertion.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The Maids and Matrons will treat their friends this evening to a concert to be given by the "Do-Re-Mi Club," to be followed by a German. The program to be rendered is as follows:

Piano Solo—"Norwegian Wedding March," (Grieg), Kathryn Potter.
Vocal Solo—(a) "Coolan-Dhu," (Franco Leoni); (b) "A Fairy Love Song," (Chas. Willeby), Kie Julie Christin.

Piano Solo—"Air de Ballet," (Moscowski), Emma S. A. Williams.

Vocal Solo—"Magnetic Waltz," (L'Arviti), Bessie Abbott Howland.

Prelude, Op. 10, (MacDowell), Sadie Douglas.

Vocal Solo—(a-b) Selections, Leonia Virginia Kellam.

Violin Solo—"Romance," (Wienlawski), Eleanor Clemons.

Vocal Solo—(a) "By the Sea," (Schubert); (b) "The Nightingale's Song," (Nevin), Grace M. James.

The book of by-laws and of membership has been distributed to members of the Maids and Matrons organization. It is a very neat and attractive affair.

Miss Berenice Williams is visiting Miss Margaret Kelso (formerly of

The clerk was instructed to reply in form as advised by city attorney.

An ordinance providing for the issuing of bonds for the city lighting proposition in the sum of sixty thousand dollars, was taken up for a third reading and final passage. City engineer instructed to prepare a map for use in constructing the proposed lighting plant.

The time for hearing the appeal of Lapp-Gifford Co. from the acts and determination of the street superintendent in issuing the assessment, etc., for the improvement of Howard street, was fixed for Monday, the 19th day of July, 1909, at 3 o'clock p. m., at the city hall.

COUNTRY BOARD WANTED.

This caption suggests an advertisement, but it is otherwise. This office has had inquiries recently from people in Los Angeles—ladies, usually—who went to find pleasant homes in the country for a few weeks where they can spend their summer vacation. They want to get away from railroads, at least some little distance, and to be more or less remote from the ubiquitous electric cars, which are rapidly converting our country byways into the crowded highways required by our twentieth century ideas of life.

The inquiry comes from people who want to find a place where real rest can be had when wanted, without one's having thrust upon him any of the insistent features of a world of business and fashion. There is a valuable suggestion here for some one who has the talent for catering to this natural desire of a portion of his fellow creatures, who after months of useful toil have an equal longing for something that differs from it as much as possible. Now let some one who has a pleasant home in our attractive valley, where there are shade trees, flowers, fruit and the other features of a well-appointed country place, come to the rescue of these suffering seekers after wholesome ease, and throw open to them (for a consideration, of course), the hospitable gates of their homes.

HOODLUMISM.

The Fourth of July did not pass without some incidents which indicate that Glendale is not as free as we might desire of at least a few sepielts of a class of boys which can easily be spared. On Friday evening two or three of this class of undesirable amused themselves with throwing cannon crackers about the residence of Mr. G. W. Case on Lomita avenue and Central. One or more of them exploded near the house and others nearby. Mr. Case, who is a G. A. R. veteran, was ill at the time, so that the incident was more than a mere annoyance and might easily have been followed by serious consequences. The city marshal was notified and investigated the matter but made no arrests. It is said that he easily found the perpetrators of the act and gave them a chapter out of the law, the result of which it is hoped will be salutary.

There were other instances of the use of these large crackers which should not have been allowed; indeed, it is hoped that the sale of them will be suppressed before another Fourth of July comes around, as in the hands of irresponsible youngsters they are a menace to life and property.

Gee, but it's hot! These last few days have made us realize the fact that the time has come for the outing by the sea waves and for lighter clothing. Dig up your summer suits. Don't throw away last season's. Send word to the Glendale Dye Works and they will call for your work. Cleaning, pressing and repairing done neatly and reasonably. Wm. Lewis. Home 832; Sunset 2071.

MOCK AND SINCLAIR RETURN.

Mr. George Mock and Street Superintendent Sinclair returned the other day from a ten days' tour of Southern California in Mr. Mock's automobile. They went to San Diego and from that place up through Escondido, Temecula, Fall Brook, etc., to San Bernardino. From there they went through Cajon Pass over to Victorville and around among the mountains in that vicinity. They had the usual adventures of voyagers in automobiles and a few extras thrown in. They were beguiled out into the mountains under promise of a good mountain road which they still believe doesn't exist, and found that there are things which even an automobile won't climb, but it was a pleasant trip, the weather was not especially warm and Mr. Sinclair asserts that the mountain air in that latitude is exhilarating in extreme degree. Near Victorville in the "Narrows" of the Mojave river overlooking the desert, an immense enterprise is now under way, consisting of a dam across the Narrows which is calculated to impound the large volume of water that feeds that stream. When completed the water from this source will serve to irrigate many thousands of acres of land in the valley below, giving promise of a wonderful fertility in a section which has an area not much less in extent than the wonderful Imperial country and lying within a hundred miles of Los Angeles.

When you patronize home industry you are indirectly benefitting yourself. In buying flour made by the Pasadena Milling Co. you benefit yourself two fold. You not only keep the money in Southern California but you get better value for your outlay.

HERMAN HOWES SANFORD.

Early Sunday morning June 20th, Prof Sanford was stricken down at his home, 1305 West Third street, with paralysis of his left side and passed away on Wednesday evening, the 23d. He was born at Madison, N. Y., Sept. 29th, 1829. Graduated from Colgate university in 1851 and in 1872 received therefrom the degree of Ph. D., and in 1883 the degree of L. L. D. from the University of Chicago. He was a teacher of languages for over 30 years, retiring in 1882. In 1905 he removed from Syracuse, N. Y., to his late home in Glendale. In 1857 he was married to Emily Taylor of Hamilton, N. Y., the only daughter of Stephen W. Taylor, the first president of Colgate. His wife survives him, also a son, W. J. Sanford, and Mrs. Elmer K. Fisher, both residents of Glendale. He was a member of the Calvary Baptist church and was a man of unusual Christian character and will be missed by a large circle of friends.

The funeral services were conducted by Geo. B. Studd of Los Angeles and the interment was made in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Do you wish to exchange a Glendale lot for lot 11, block B, Ocean Park Villa Tract, in Venice? Four blocks from ocean, one block from grammar school, corner lot. Free of incumbrance. M. M. Eshelman, Yosemite Valley Cal., until July 25th.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY ON AN OUTING.

Tuesday the ladies of the Aid Society of the Methodist church enjoyed an all-day meeting with Mrs. L. E. Brown at Eleanor ranch at Sycamore Canon. An out-door living room was made under the shady trees; carpets and rugs were brought out, and sewing machines and chairs inspired each enthusiast to accomplish her utmost for the bazaar to be given in the fall. Much work was completed and all were ready for fun when the call came to put away work and have lunch.

Thirty were gathered around the long table made so attractive with greenery and fruits and the viands well deserved the praise they received. Afterwards a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Emma Burkit.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' UNION.

The teachers' union held their meeting as usual in the Baptist church, Thursday, 10:30 a. m. The topic included a talk on next Sunday's lesson for the Sunday school, which was well handled by Miss Brockway from Los Angeles. During the summer months, July and August, meetings will be held every two weeks. This union of teachers who meet once a week to teach the following Sunday school lessons, has been very profitable.

MRS. TESCHAN.

The Glendale Market will serve you with the best meats at the lowest prices.

Baptist Church Notes

The pastor is home from the Northern Baptist Convention and will preach at both morning and evening services next Sunday.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Communion service at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning in charge of Rev. Mr. Chase, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Burbank. In the evening, union service with the Methodist church in the Presbyterian church. Service in charge of Rev. J. F. Humphrey of the Methodist church.

ST. MARK'S EPISCOPAL.

Sunday, July 11th, morning service at 11 o'clock, with a sermon by the Rev. M. S. Runkle, subject, "Is Life Worth Living—Your Life?" The Sunday school meets every Lord's day at 10 o'clock at the Parish hall, corner Third street and Jackson. Parents are requested to send their children with regularity and promptly. The public is cordially invited to the services of this church and assured a welcome.

METHODIST CHURCH.

J. F. Humphrey, Pastor.

Morning service, Rev. Webb will preach; evening, Union service with the Presbyterians in the Presbyterian church, 8 p. m.

Class meeting, 12 m. Rev. Webb will address the young people of the community, Sunday evening, 7 p. m.

Official board after the evangelistic service, Monday night.

Epworth League business meeting after the evangelistic service, Tuesday evening.

Prayer service Thursday evening.

FAMILY REUNION.

The fifth of July being a holiday was observed by the Tarr family in a happy reunion at Eastlake Park in Los Angeles, Monday last. There were forty-four of the representatives of the family present, consisting of three generations, all of whom live in California. The patriarch of the family was Rev. C. W. Tarr, of Garvanza, a retired minister, who came to the coast forty years ago. One of his cousins, also an octogenarian, was one of the party, Mr. W. E. Tarr of Glendale with his family contributed quite a large proportion of the party present. Mr. Lewis Tarr, a former resident of Tropic and now a teacher in the High School at San Pedro, was one of the party which after a day of pleasure returned to the home of one of the party on Mozart street and enjoyed an exhibition of fireworks.

GLENDALE DEFEATS LONG BEACH.

The Glendale baseball team, which played the Long Beach team Monday morning on the Long Beach diamond, came home with the scalp of the seashore boys by a score of 10-6. The game was interesting for the first five innings, when the Glendale boys took the lead by heavy batting and excellent base running and won out. The Glendale boys after the game accepted the invitation of the Long Beach manager to a swim in their fine plunge.

The Glendale team expects to play ball every Sunday hereafter at Glendale, the grounds they are trying to lease are located at Fourth and Orange streets.

RECEPTION FOR MISS McPEAK.

Miss Mary McPeak, who spent several months at one time in Glendale, with her sister, Mrs. Dan Campbell, was tendered a reception by Miss Alice R. Moore, preceptress and English teacher at Occidental college, where Miss McPeak taught latin.

The affair was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh K. Walker and the house was beautifully decorated with the college colors and pennants and the flags of Great Britain.

The dining room was especially attractive in green to suggest the Emerald Isle, to which Miss McPeak is soon to go to wed Mr. Alfred W. Jacob, a corn merchant and miller at Cork.

From Butler County Press, Greene, Iowa, we clip the following reference to our enterprising merchant, Mr. Carney:

"This office received a card from Dave Carney this week with instructions to send the Press to Glendale, Cal., where he has purchased a shoe store. This town is located north of Los Angeles and west of Pasadena. Mr. Carney is a versatile shoe merchant and for years carried an excellent stock in this place. Here's success to Dave and his estimable family in their new home and business venture in the western country."

Everything for the table in meat at the Glendale Market.

Social and Personal

Born: Monday, July 5th, to Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Overton, a son.

Miss Margaret Cross is spending her vacation in Glendale with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee and family go to Long Beach, Friday, for a few days' outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Byram spent the Fourth with his mother, Mrs. E. T. Byram.

Miss Eva Quick spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. W. R. Newton of Second street.

Mr. J. H. French of Crafton, Cal., is spending a few days in Glendale stopping at the Vert Motel.

Little Helen Byram of Ontario has been in Glendale on a visit to her grandmother, Mrs. E. T. Byram.

Helen Rainsburgh has just returned home from a two weeks' visit with her aunt, Mrs. Johnson at Long Beach.

Mrs. Mary V. Colburn has gone East to visit relatives in Bay City, Alpena, Michigan, and Youngstown, O.

Mr. R. W. Tureman of Kansas City with his family, cousins of Mr. J. L. Overton, are spending the summer at Ocean Park.

Mr. Otto Froehlich has exchanged with Mrs. Burghardt his East Fifth street home for residence property in Los Angeles.

During the absence of Mrs. Ryan, her home on Fifth street is occupied by Mr. Scott and family, recent comers to Glendale.

Mr. Ralph Mason and sister, Dorothy, of Clearwater, spent a few days last week with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith.

Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Mehler and little son, Frank, of New London, Iowa, are spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee of Cedar street.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Pack are glad to hear she is enjoying her trip, having stopped at Seattle for a few days and is now well on her way to Canada.

Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan and daughter, Evelyn, and niece, Mrs. Ora Collins, and Miss Walte, spent Monday in San Francisco on their way to the exposition at Seattle.

Prof. H. L. Howe and wife have returned from a five days' sojourn at Long Beach winding up their visit by participating in the celebration of the Fourth at that place.

Mr. B. F. Patterson and Mr. Geo. Cornwell, who have been confined to their homes for some weeks past by illness, have both been able to be out on the street this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Peck and daughter, Lois, of Pomona, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fryer of North Glendale. Wallace Fryer, wife and son of Pomona, visited his parents at North Glendale Sunday.

Mrs. J. L. Overton, whose mother died about six weeks ago at her home in Missouri, received news a few days ago of the death of her oldest brother, Mr. J. V. Williams. A younger brother is expected to arrive in Glendale soon to spend the remainder of the summer.

We regret to learn that Rev. George Eley, of Lomita Park, is seriously ill. Mr. Eley was taken ill at Corona, where he is in charge of the Episcopal church. Dr. G. W. Hunt, the family physician, was summoned and Mr. Eley was brought to his home on Wednesday.

Mr. V. Price Brown is enjoying a three weeks' vacation on route to Seattle and at that city where he is visiting the exposition and is in attendance at the meeting of the Credit Men's Association which assembles there. He left a fortnight ago and will remain another week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson and family, Mrs. Billington and family and Sol Rehart of Glendale were entertained by Mrs. G. B. Smith at Newhall on the 4th, 5th and 6th of July. On the 5th Independence Day was celebrated at Castal, near Newhall, by a barbecue and other amusements and the party made the trip in a hayrack and had altogether a jolly time.

Mr. C. W. Richards, owner of property on Kenneth Road, North Glendale, called at the NEWS office Wednesday last. Mr. Richards in noting the improvements in Glendale expressed his hope that in the near future he will be able to become a resident of this section, which he believes is now growing faster than any other suburban community in the country.

Mr. H. P. Smith, who is enjoying a fortnight's vacation, has just returned with Mrs. Smith from a visit to San Francisco and vicinity. He reports exceedingly cool weather prevailing in the vicinity of the bay, with the exception of one or two unusually hot days. San Francisco while it has been built up since the fire in a way that is the wonder and admiration of the world, seems much less like a city of homes than it did before the great catastrophe. Many of its former residents have evidently taken up their homes in the cities across the bay, Oakland now being credited with a population of 75,000, and Alameda and Berkeley having gained population in similar ratio.

GLENDAL, CAL., JULY 10, 1909

Another book upon Walt Whitman, has been given to the world which is rapidly becoming lumbered up with gifts. It is by Prof. Carpenter, who commends Whitman as a social mystic and an idealist, which is not so unforgivable as the claim that he was a poet.

Mr. Thomas L. Woolwine, ex-assistant city attorney of Los Angeles, who tried to emulate Francis Heney and gain much glory thereby, has written an article for World's Work on the work of "reform" in Los Angeles, brought about by him and the "Recall."

He speaks in laudatory language of Mr. Wesley Clark and the other five members of the grand jury who dissented from the majority report of that body and gave the public one of their own (which did not have the approval of the court). Mr. Woolwine's article would be much more interesting if it told some other things which are known to the gifted author in regard to the work of that grand jury.

Possibly he could disclose the name of the attorney who was so frequently consulted by Mr. Wesley Clark in regard to grand jury affairs and who wrote for that patriotic gentleman the minority report referred to? Was it modesty that prevented M. Woolwine from doing so?

A SERMON BY KIPLING.

We hear but rarely from Rudyard Kipling nowadays; a fact which the world has cause to regret. The following is an extract from an address delivered by him to the students of McGill university, Montreal, recently. It proves him a preacher of high merit, as former work of his has shown him to be the foremost poet of our time.

"When, to use a detestable phrase, you go out into the battle of life you will be confronted by an organized conspiracy which will try to make you believe that the world is governed by the idea of wealth for wealth's sake, and that all means which lead to the requisition of that wealth are at least expedient.

"Now, I do not ask you not to be carried away by the first rush of the great game of life. That is expecting you to be more than human. But I do ask, after the first heat of the game, that you draw breath and watch your fellows for awhile. Sooner or later you will see some man to whom the idea of wealth as mere wealth does not appeal, whom the methods of amassing that wealth do not interest, and who will not accept money if you offer it to him at a certain price.

"I would like, you to study that man. I would like you better to be that man, because from the lower point of view it doesn't pay to be obsessed by the desire of wealth for wealth's sake. If more wealth is necessary to you for purposes not your own, use your left hand to acquire it, but keep your right hand for your proper work in life. If you employ both arms in that game you will be in danger of stooping; in danger also of losing your soul. But in spite of everything you may succeed, you may be successful, you may acquire enormous wealth, in which case I warn you that you stand in grave danger of being spoken and written of and pointed out as a smart man. And that is one of the most terrible calamities that can overtake a sane, civilized white man in our empire today.

"They say youth is the season of hope, ambition, and uplift—that the last word youth needs is an exhortation to be cheerful. Some of you here, now, and I remember, that youth can be a season of great depression, despondencies, doubts and waverings, the worse because they seem to be peculiar to ourselves and incommunicable to our fellows.

"I know of what I speak. This is due to a variety of causes, the chief of which is the egotism of the human animal itself. But I can tell you for your comfort that the chief cure for it is to interest yourself, to lose yourself, in some issue not personal to yourself—in another man's trouble or, preferably, another man's joy. But if the dark hour does not vanish, as sometimes it will not; let me tell you again for your comfort that there are many liars in the world, but there are no liars like our own sensations. The despair and the horror mean nothing, because there is for you nothing irremediable, nothing ineffaceable, nothing irrecoverable in anything you may have said or thought or done. If for any reason you cannot believe or have not been taught to believe in the infinite mercy of Heaven, which has made us all, and will take care we do not go far astray, at least believe that you are not yet sufficiently important to be taken too seriously by the powers above us or beneath us."

THE TARIFF ON LEMONS.

Something About the Industry.

We find the following in a "Direct Wire" to the Los Angeles Times of July 6th:

"WASHINGTON, July 5.—Senator Flint had charge of the customs court feature of the tariff bill today and defended it against a vicious attack by Rayner of Maryland.

"The reason the senator from California," said Rayner, "takes so much interest in this provision is because, as in the case of the lemon schedule, he is going to get something out of it. Perhaps he has noticed that lemons are now selling at $9 per box."

"That is just what I said would happen two weeks ago," interposed Flint. "At that time lemons were $2 a box. I stated that the importers could, within thirty days, increase the price of lemons from $2 to $9 per box. I added that if they had competition from California they would not be able to do it, and that the only way to get competition by California was to increase the duty so as to encourage the California producers to raise more fruit."

It does not appear from this report that either of the senators quoted added by it greatly to his accumulation of credits, but the headlines given to the item by the Times, imply that Senator Flint said something brilliant and perfectly conclusive. As this is a fair sample of the kind of argument that prevail with our chamber of commerce brand of statesmen, it is deserving of at least passing notice. And we do not wish to detract from the record of good work done by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce either, nor do we enjoy criticising our senator from Southern California. He is an able representative of the interests which are particularly dear to a large number of his constituents, whose motto is "California, right or wrong, but California anyhow." But we do not believe those interests are being protected or advanced in the most wise manner by the methods of the "booster," whose principal stock in trade is froth and enthusiasm. The efforts being made by our representatives in congress to secure every possible cent of duty on products similar to those raised in California which may come to the United States from abroad, without any consideration for the interests of the consumer, do not reflect credit upon us as a people—they are evidence of greed and selfishness which will injure the state when the insincerity of the appeal is developed by the passage of time. Our chambers of commerce and Boards of trade all over the state are distributing literature in which is set forth in glowing colors the attractiveness of our state to the home builder and to the business man as well. Stress is laid particularly upon the fertility of our soil and the geniality of our climate, and the profits to be gathered in by raising fruit of various kinds. The profits of our orange and lemon orchards are set forth in the most alluring quotations of returns that the skill of the statistician can tabulate. Now, if the fruit-growing business in California can be so readily proved to be profitable, wherein is the consistency of efforts made by the same commercial bodies and their representatives in congress to show that we cannot successfully struggle against foreign competition? But is it true that lemon growing is a profitable industry here?

The other day the papers informed us that a man in Riverside had received over $1000 for a carload of lemons sold in New York. This paper has within the past year published statements showing that growers in this immediate neighborhood have realized from lemons prices which prove that this business when properly conducted in sections adapted to lemon culture, is highly remunerative. We do not know whether our successful lemon growers are insistent in a demand that the present duty of one cent a pound on lemons shall be increased or not, but we are quite sure that they do not need any such increase. But who can assert seriously, assuming that the additional tariff demanded will be added to the price the grower will receive for his product, and which will amount to about twenty cents a box, that this amount represents the difference between successful and unsuccessful lemon culture?

The unsuccessful grower of lemons in California will undoubtedly insist upon a tariff as high as it is possible to procure. But does any one suppose that the non-profitable lemon orchards in this state will be converted into remunerative investments with 20 or 25 cents per box added to the price paid by the consumer? And why we have unprofitable orchards, is a question very pertinent to the issue, and a question which quite possibly our California representatives are not well enough posted on to answer concisely, as even a senator of the United States may be pardoned for not knowing everything about the numerous subjects which he is compelled to discuss. The lemon industry in California is in a prosperous condition; that is, the owners of orchards who bestow upon them a proper amount of intelligence, work and money are getting quite adequate returns. And the business will become more remunerative as still further knowledge is obtained and further improvements are made in the methods applied to culture, shipping, storing and marketing. The principal thing that the lemon grower requires, supposing that he does know how to produce a good quality of fruit and lives up to his knowledge, is a steady demand, a reliable market and a fair price. No tariff, however high, can affect favorably the first two of these requirements, which if secured guarantee the third. A high tariff, however, if it should result in high prices, would undoubtedly act in the direction of diminishing the demand. A large portion of the people of the United States do not yet know what it is to have the lemon for common use; it is with a great many people still a luxury. The principal efforts of the lemon growers should be directed to making the demand for their product as nearly world-wide as possible, certainly they should endeavor to create an increased demand for it in our own country. The principal drawback to the industry thus far, and this does not yet go to the extent of making it unprofitable, is the varying demand caused by the uncertainties of weather conditions. This is met to some extent by intelligent growers, through a control of the output of their orchards and with increased knowledge it will soon be possible to regulate this to a considerable extent. The regulation of the demand, however, which increases with an increase of temperature, cannot be regulated. Mr. Flint's implication that the increase in price from $2 to $9 per box within a few weeks, had anything to do with the tariff, or vice versa, is a reflection upon the intelligence of his audience if he expected the latter to believe it. That an increase in the duty imposed on the imported article is the only thing that will enable California to compete with the lemon industry of the Mediterranean countries, is ridiculous. We already compete and very effectively—not to the extent of keeping out the foreign product, it is true, but with fair success. California cannot afford to appear in such an unenviable light as to have it thought that we should be glad to exclude the imported product when we are unable to supply the demand.

We do not believe that the best interests of California are being served by an insistence upon a high and still higher "protective tariff" on our products. It would seem to be wise on the part of our representatives in Congress to concede the things which are the least essential to our prosperity and by assuming a virtue, at least, get credit in a way that will do us some good.

POLITICS AND PUBLIC-BUSINESS.

Glendale has been fortunate in its municipal life thus far. We have had no scandals in connection with our municipal affairs. Everybody has not at all times been satisfied by everything that has been done and there is the average number of citizens who have not had their own particular way about things and feel very sure that they and their friends would have done things much better had they been entrusted with the reins of authority. But this condition of mind is not original nor unprecedented in the history of the world and needs only passing notice—the poor and the kicker on general principles, we always have with us. But it would be demanding too much of the powers that control the destinies of cities of the sixth class to require any cast-iron assurance that this happy condition of affairs should last forever. Certain indications, barely discernable to the naked eye, have recently been noticed by the man up a tree, pointing to the slow growth of political ambitions where erstwhile all was of a proper independence and indifference to the lure of life in the limelight. This is probably merely one of the consequences of our continued growth and increasing importance, but it contains an element of danger to the individual and to the community as well, and both of these should begin to be wary. It is not sufficient to argue that older and larger communities accept and bear patiently the burden inflicted upon them by those industries known as "wire pulling" and "fence making;" let us delay as long as possible the evil day, even if need be, at the risk of meriting the accusation that we are a community of unsophisticated suburbanites!

Keep politics out of our public affairs in the municipality and the schools!

MT. WILSON AND THE OBSERVATORY

"X-Ray" Gives a Description of Its Equipment and the Work Being Done There

It is exceedingly difficult to refrain from exaggerating when writing of the wonders of the great solar and stellar observatory which in itself is one of the highest achievements of the human intellect.

Mr. Wilson alone is magnificent and beautiful, indeed! and the observatory and its splendid equipment, absolutely cannot be duplicated—it is entirely without an equal.

A party of four, two ladies and two gentlemen, went up the mountain from Glendale last Sunday afternoon, starting from the foot of the trail at 4 p. m., and by easy walking arrived at the top at 9:30 p. m. By that time the moon, about two days past the full, had arisen in all her silvery glory illuminating and idealizing crag and canyon in fairy splendor.

On seeking to gain admission to the observatory the next day, your correspondent was fortunate enough to meet an old friend in the person of Professor Harold Babcock, who has charge of the institution during the absence of Dr. Geo. E. Hale in Europe. Prof. Babcock very kindly showed the party over the Carnegie observatory, where the great sixty-inch reflector is situated, and the "Snow" sun tower and telescope. Both these buildings are situated at the brink of a great precipice which gives them command of a sky-line pretty clear from trees or other obstruction.

Being entirely devoted to the study of the physical condition of the sun and stars, there is, properly speaking, no telescope in the institution. That is to say, the instruments are all reflectors, and there is nothing whatever to look through at the stars or planets. The work carried on there is confined to reflecting rays of light from the sun and stars, through the many complicated systems of slits, lenses and prisms until they attain the necessary amount of dispersion, and in such position that the operator can take photos of the spectrum thus sifted and analysed.

The sixty-inch reflecting instrument is situated in the dome of the observatory, and is devoted to study of the stars only; the "Snow" telescope being used similarly for work on the sun.

The final object of the whole work at the stellar observatory is the comparison of the spectra of stars with that of the sun, or with those of light from any incandescent substance selected from the laboratory, in order to determine what substances enter into the constitution of the stars.

The wonderful modern science of spectrum analysis is based on the fact that each substance gives a characteristic spectrum by which it can be positively identified. The spectra of all the elements known on the earth have been examined and charted, their characteristic lines accurately measured, and the position in the spectrum occupied by each exactly determined. The spectrum of iron, for instance, is entirely different from that of sodium, and that of carbon different from the other two, each element giving a distinctive and entirely different spectrum from that of any other element. Thus, when the light from the sun, or a star, is analysed in the spectro-scope, it can be seen at a glance, by comparison, whether the lines in its spectrum correspond to those in the spectrum of any of the known elements, and generally what elements enter into the composition of the distant star.

At the Mt. Wilson observatory they have just completed a series of photos of the spectrum of the great star Arcturus. A popular text book of astronomy states that this brilliant star is so far away that it takes light, which travels at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, one hundred years to come from it to us, that it is approaching us at the rate of five miles a second, and that in light-giving power it is equivalent to about 1,300 suns such as ours. These figures are, of course, entirely hypothetical and are subject to revision as observation and study reveal more definite knowledge.

At the present time much interest is being exhibited in the problem of possible life on the planet Mars, and many wonderful schemes are being devised to obtain some answer to the question, Is there intelligent life on our nearest planetary neighbor? Now Mars will be only 35 million miles from us in September, and it would seem a small matter to gain definite information over so comparatively short distance when we have at our command an instrument which tells us positively the constitution and condition of the remote stars. Assuming that it takes light 100 years to come from Arcturus you can work out its distance by simple multiplication, and when you arrive at the total in miles, Mars will seem a very near companion.

In order to photograph the spectrum of a star it is necessary to give it very long exposure, sometimes four or five hours, on several successive nights, and during all that time the star must be kept not only in the same field of vision, but so exactly in the same spot that a difference of a hair's breadth would spoil the result. To effect this essential condition a most wonderful combination of clockwork and electricity is contrived to move the great dome of the observatory so as to follow the motions of any particular star under examination in its apparent journey across the sky. It is well to remind our readers, however, that this journey is only apparent, and that it is in reality the earth which moves, and not the star.

At the "Snow" observatory two or three photos of the sun are taken every day, at 6 a. m. and 5 p. m. These are preserved for study and comparison and constitute a valuable record always available for reference.

By the courtesy of Prof. Babcock, our party was permitted to witness the operation of taking the photo of the solar spectrum on Monday afternoon, and proved of most absorbing interest to all.

Mr. Babcock is evidently an enthusiast in his work and affords an instance, all too rare in real life, of a man engaged in thoroughly congenial employment; and perhaps that may explain in a measure his amiable readiness to answer a lot of tyro questions propounded to him by a humble student in the fascinating mysteries of nature.

THE SPREAD OF AMERICANISM.

The address of Gen. F. C. Prescott at Verdugo Park, Monday last, contained several ideas which it profited his audience to add to their mental collections. One of these was his reference to the effect of American ideas and institutions upon the people of other lands than ours and one of the curious ways in which this effect is produced. He referred to the fact that the tide of immigration ebbs as well as flows and that during the last few years, many of the foreigners, particularly from Austria, Russia and Germany, who have spent some years in the United States, have returned to the parent country taking with them the manners, customs and fashions of our country. They have been unfitted by their residence here ever again to be truly loyal to the country of their birth and demand when they reach there, American goods, clothing, etc., and add largely to our export trade by their orders for American products. So they carry with them the leaven of our free American ideas and spread the influence of our American life and government.

Two octogenarians agreed to run a ten-yard footrace at Sycamore Park, July 5th. The challenger was a prohibitionist, his antagonist a temperate user of whiskey and tobacco. When time was called the prohibitionist was unable to respond, while his opponent was frisky and ready for the contest. The moral has been mislaid.

GLENDAL, CAL., JULY 10, 1909

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

July 11th, 1909.

Paul's Second Missionary Journey—The Philippian Jailer, Acts xvi:16-40. Golden Text—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. Acts xvi:31.

Verses 16-21—In what class do you place those who profit by the sins of fallen women?

This young woman was possessed with a very clever spirit of evil, an all round spirit of deception, including fortune telling; now wherein did her sin consist, and that of her owners?

Which are the more to be blamed in these days, fortune tellers or their willing dupes?

When bad men are losing the gains of their evil occupation, are they apt to be careful of the truth, when they are after the good men who have destroyed their business? For example the liquor dealers.

Verses 22—What made the multitude so angry at Paul and Silas, and is any reliance ever to be placed upon the excited attitude of a large crowd?

Do religious differences still make the people hate one another?

Does worldly gain, to-day play any part in religious intolerance?

Verses 23—Why did God permit such cruelty to his faithful servants?

Why is it that godly people often have to go through very exquisite suffering?

Verses 24—Say why it is possible for any good man in prison, lying upon a raw back, with his feet fast in the stocks, to be as happy as a man in health and at liberty?

Does a good man's influence cease when he is imprisoned and his limbs are fettered?

In looking back over the results of his imprisonment, would Paul and Silas be apt to regret this painful incident?

Verses 25—Is there any circumstance so painful, or disastrous, that prayer and praise cannot turn it into joy and victory?

If we prayed and sang more in our private lives, and in our families, would we have more joy and gladness?

Verses 26—Was this earthquake the result of the prayer of Paul and Silas, or was it a natural event?

Does God to-day work out for his people, practically the same results as are here recorded?

Verses 27-28—Why did the jailer decide upon suicide, and is such a course ever justifiable?

Verses 29-30—Was it natural fear or religious conviction, that now operated in the jailer?

What did the jailer desire to be saved from?

Verses 31—What precisely did they mean by believing on the Lord Jesus?

May a father or mother believe in Jesus, so as to assure the salvation of their children? (This question is to be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 32—What is "the word of the Lord," and may a person know that word, first hand, who is not personally acquainted with the Lord?

Verses 33-34—Can the grace of God suddenly turn a cruel and brutal man, into a tender-hearted Christian?

Verses 35-40—May we be confident that there will always be a happy ending to all our trials?

Lessons for Sunday, July 18th, 1909—Paul's Second Missionary Journey—Thessalonica and Berea. Acts xvii: 1-15.

FLOATING PALACES.

Balloons of the Hindoo Rajahs on the Ganges River.

Notwithstanding the fact that India has for many years been under the rule of England, the conditions and manner of living have not greatly changed in many parts of it. On the Ganges river in the northwest provinces the tourist will see, if he approaches Benares at the right time, the same type of craft that carried pilgrims to this most sacred of Hindoo cities hundreds of years ago. These are floating palaces or magnificent galleys on which rajahs journey to Benares and which serve as a test of their pious zeal.

These galleys differ hardly a iota from the vessels used for the same purpose by rajahs who died centuries past. Incrusted with gold, silver and pearls and decorated with tapestries embroidered with precious metals and jewels, these wonderful modern-ancient vessels lend a festive touch to the river scene. But their sumptuousness does not prevent the richest rajah who possesses one from bathing in the same water, surrounded by 500,000 poorer pilgrims, even though the sacred river is thus plausibly filled with myriads of microbes. And he will fill great jars with the water in which the pilgrims have washed their bodies and drink it.

In contrast to these floating palaces are the barges of the poorer classes. The system of caste in India imposes upon the riverman the obligation of living on the water as his ancestors lived, so his shabby looking craft is also his home. Usually he has in his floating house a small chapel dedicated to a secondary divinity who personifies the river on which he exists.—Popular Mechanics.

She Followed Instructions. In a certain city, which shall be nameless, a literary man had asked his wife as she was starting downtown to buy a couple of shirts for him. She asked him what kind, and he answered, "Size 15."

"Yes, but"—

"Two dollars."

"But I want to know"—

"Oh, the color? Well, I've plenty of white shirts. Get me something that won't show soot. Now, don't bother me any more, please. I'm at work."

She did not bother him any more. She went away and in the afternoon returned with her purchases.

"Here are your shirts, John," she said, laying them down before him.

"Why, they are coal black, Lucinda!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, that's the only kind that won't show soot. They are just what you told me to buy. Now, don't bother me by talking about them. I have got to go and look after the children."

Being "game," John took his medicine without protest.—Youth's Companion.

A Just Rebuke.

"I am," he said, "deformed. Pads hide it. Still, deformed I am, and I want to know why writers always make deformed persons villains? Take Quasimodo in Victor Hugo's 'Notre Dame.' Why, Quasimodo was little better than a wild gorilla, swinging from the great bell and hurling the priest down from the high tower. Take the housemaid's clubfoot father in Ibsen's 'Ghosts.' There was a nasty old man for you—a nasty, perverse, evil minded old rooster, eh? Take Dick Crookback in the Immortal William's play. Take Noses the Dwarf in Hauff's classic fairy tale. Take the villains in all fairy tales, for that matter. They are a one eyed, lame, hunch-backed, clubfooted lot."

"It makes us deformed folks red hot, this literary imputation of villainy. It causes people to think we really are villains. Where's the child, after a course of fairy tales, that can be persuaded a hunchback's soul doesn't match his body?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Danger in Eye Pouches.

Do not poultice an eye in any circumstances whatever. Blinding a wet application over an eye for several hours must damage that eye, the assertions of those professing to have personal experience in this to the contrary notwithstanding. The failure to aggravate an existing trouble by binding a moist application over an inflamed eye, which application is supposed to remain for an entire night, can only be explained by the supposition that a guardian angel has watched over that misguided case and has displaced the poultice before it had got in its fine work. All oculists condemn the poultice absolutely, in every shape and in every form. Tea leaves, bread and milk, raw oysters, scraped beef, scraped raw turnip or raw potato and the medley of other similar remedies popularly recommended are one and all capable of producing irremediable damage to the integrity of the tissues of the visual organ.—Family Doctor.

Eccentric Count Bertrand.

Count Bertrand, who lived in Paris, was a very eccentric man, and to one of his eccentricities he ascribed his long life. Once a year he would be taken himself to bed and stay there for three months. On these occasions he would see no one but his servant, who brought him his meals, and even him he forbade to speak. Just before the Germans began the siege of Paris the count went to bed, and the servant, true to his injunctions, said nothing of the events going on around him. One day the bread proved so bad the count demanded an explanation, whereby, of course, he learned that Paris was encompassed by the enemy. Springing out of bed, the count paced the floor, repeating, "What should a Bertrand do under such circumstances?" Suddenly he stopped, exclaiming, "We should go to bed!" and to bed he went and stayed there until the siege was over.

Willie Objects.

Among the representatives in congress is one whose lack of personal comeliness is the basis of personal banter from his facetiously inclined colleagues.

"Why, Willie," said one of them to the four-year-old son of the congressman, "how much you resemble your father!"

"Yes, sir," responded Willie, with an air of resignation. "Everybody says that, but I don't think I deserve it."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Getting a Start.

"Did you secure tickets for the play, hubby?" inquired the New York wife. "I hear they are in demand."

"They are, but I managed to get seats for two months from tonight. And, by the way"—

"Well?"

"You might begin to get ready now."—Kansas City Journal.

The Annual Roster.

"Do you know the difference between an optimist and a pessimist?" "Yes, indeed," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "All I have to do to see the difference is to observe Charley at the beginning and at the end of a baseball season."—Washington Star.

The Unhonored Prophet.

A visitor to Carlyle's birthplace back in the seventies said to a native: "Smart man, that Thomas Carlyle." The native grunted. "Him smart? Why, I went to skule w' him."

The soul is the perceiver and revealer of truth.—Emerson.

The Joke on the Jockey.

A few years ago a famous jockey was engaged to ride the favorite in an important race. On the way to the post he found himself cantering alongside a rank outsider, the mount of a stable boy who had only just commenced riding.

"You'll have to be careful with that brute, B.," he remarked. "I've ridden him before, and you'll never be able to hold him."

B. thanked the crack for the hint and said that he would "do his best."

Halfway through the race the outsider and another were in front, with the favorite close behind. Fancifully that the others were in difficulties, the rider of the favorite shouted:

"Pull out, B., and let me through! I've got the race in hand."

The crack was mistaken, however. Looking back, the stable boy replied, with a grin:

"I would, but I can't hold him!"

With which the novice let his horse have his head and shot away, the easiest of winners, to the chagrin of the crack, who finished second.

Happiness and Joy.

Happiness, according to the original use of the term, is that which happens or comes to one by a hap—that is, by an outward befalling or favorable condition. It is what money yields or will buy—dress, equipage, fashion, luxuries of the table—or it is settlement in life, independence, love, applause, admiration, honor, glory, or the more conventional and public benefits of rank, political standing, victory, power—all these stir a delight in the soul, which is not of the soul or its quality, but from without; hence they are looked upon as happening to the soul and, in that sense, create happiness. Joy differs from this as being of the soul itself, originating in its quality. And this appears in the original form of the word, which instead of suggesting a hap literally denotes a leap or spring. * * * The motion is outward and not toward, as we conceive it to be in happiness. It is not the bliss of condition, but of character.—Dr. Horace Bushnell.

Concealed Weapons.

Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.

Instead of answering, the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.

Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corn-cob. The remarks of the policemen cannot possibly be recorded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Making History.

When Kinglake was writing his history of the Crimean war he received letters from all sorts of people concerned in the war. One day a letter with a deep black border came from two people in the colonies, husband and wife, describing their grief. Their only child had been killed in the Crimea. They wanted to have him mentioned in the "History of the Crimean War." Kinglake was touched and replied by post that he would do his best if they would send him the necessary particulars. Again a letter, also black bordered, full of thanks, but with the following conclusion: "We have no particulars whatever to give you. He was killed on the spot, like many others, but anything you may kindly invent will be welcome. We leave it entirely to your imagination."—London Chronicle.

Taken Unaware.

Sir William Grantham was engaged as a political speaker in the days before he took his place on the bench and when he was plain Mr. Grantham. On one occasion, while he was delivering an address, a man got up in the audience and shouted out excitedly, "It's a lie!" "Thanks," said the future judge. "It's a lie!" shouted the excited one again. "You're a gentleman," said Mr. Grantham sarcastically. "It's a lie!" burst out his opponent again, carried away by his wrath, but the general laughter which arose at his answer recalled him to himself again, and he sat down discomfited.—London M. A. P.

To the Point.

A little boy hurriedly entered a drug store and asked the clerk for a bottle of liniment and a bottle of china cement.

"Why," said the clerk, "that's a funny combination. What do you want with those things?"

"Ma hit dad with a teacup and broke it!" exclaimed the boy.

Knocking Hubby.

"My husband thinks he is very economical," said the blue eyed woman. "He saves everything. One drawer of his desk is devoted to time tables, and he has some that are three years old."—Exchange.

A Matter of Taste.

"Mister, you're wasting time sketching that old ruined bridge."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; there's a fine new steel bridge just a mile farther on."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Our opinion of ourselves, like our shadow, makes us either too big or too little.—Bronte.

How He Lost Out.

"It served me right," sighed the bachelor. "I ought to have remembered that women have no sense of humor."

"What's gnawing you now?" queried that inquisitive friend.

"Why, during leap year a pretty girl with an obese fortune proposed to me, and I said 'No,'" explained the bachelor, "thinking, of course, she would take it for granted that my 'No' meant 'Yes,' but she simply let it go at that."

—Chicago News.

Trouble All the Time.

Father—It's singular that whenever I want you to marry a man you object and whenever I do not want you to marry one you straightway insist on it. Daughter—Yes, and whenever we are agreed the man objects.—Liverpool Mercury.

We are Going to Move

We hope to get in our new building not later than the 19th, where we will be glad to welcome all our old friends and lots of new ones.

We can't have a removal sale, as all our goods are "all wool and a yard wide." None damaged or shop worn. On the other hand we expect to sell drafts and money orders at a premium of fifteen cents on each hundred dollars.

But call and see us whether you want to buy money orders, make a deposit, borrow money, or just to get acquainted. Come anyway.

Compare the Time

As kept by the watches and clocks we sell with a first class "regulator" and convince yourself of the accuracy of our timepieces. You know our watches carry a guarantee, and we keep them in repair a whole year free of charge. Subsequent cleaning and repairing at moderate rates. Chronometers, split-second watches and other delicate mechanism a specialty.

Messrs. Giffon, Roberts and Eddy were present from Highland Park and with Col. Eddy and Mr. Brown of Eagle Rock and others discussed the question in its many phases. It was finally decided to attempt to raise the sum of $15,000 and a committee was appointed to attend to it. The general opinion seemed to be that the price asked for the land was excessive.

EAGLE ROCK IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.

The Eagle Rock Improvement society held a special meeting Wednesday night at Symphony hall. It was largely attended, between fifty and seventy people being present.

The special business of the meeting was the consideration of the question of making an effort to do what might be possible to secure the additional 25 acres of land necessary to insure the selection of the new Occidental college site in the valley. The location proposed being at the junction of Eagle Rock and New York valleys. It seems that James A. Garth and W. A. Roberts have secured an option on a tract of 200 acres at the point mentioned, and it is understood that they propose to donate as a college site a tract of fifty acres, but that this is not sufficient to satisfy the demands of the college trustees, and they desire twenty-five acres more.

The meeting proceeded to a discussion of the project to raise money to secure this 25 acres for which $1000 per acre is asked.

THE FAIR AT THE SKATING RINK.

The fair opened last night in a blaze of glory and promises to be a great success. The ladies committee have been hard at work, assisted by a few of the other sex, for several days past, receiving exhibits and placing them. It will be open all day today and the close tonight is expected to be the fitting finish to a successful enterprise. It is hoped by the promoters that the pavilion debt will be very greatly reduced if not wiped out.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The last meeting at the hospitable home of Mrs. E. T. Byram, was an enjoyable affair in the open air. There was an excellent patriotic program offered. The attendance was not as large as it should have been, but those present were well repaid. The next regular meeting will be held at the M. E. church as usual, on Friday, next week at 2:30 p. m. It is hoped that the attendance will be good. Everybody is invited.

ORDINANCE NO. 99.

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUING OF BONDS OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, IN THE SUM OF SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, FOR THE ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION AND COMPLETION BY SAID CITY OF GLENDALE OF ELECTRIC LIGHT WORKS.

WHEREAS, The Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, California, at a regular meeting thereof held on the 5th day of May, 1909, by a vote of two-thirds of all its members, duly passed and adopted a Resolution determining that the public interest and necessity demanded the acquisition, construction and completion by said City of Glendale of a certain municipal improvement, to-wit, Electric Light Works, and that the estimated cost of said municipal improvement was Sixty Thousand Dollars, and that such cost was, and will be, too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenues of said City; and

WHEREAS, Said Resolution was approved by the Executive of said City, to-wit, the President of said Board of Trustees, on said 5th day of May, 1909, at said meeting of said Board, and was duly published on the 8th day of May, 1909, in the GLENDALE NEWS, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale; and

WHEREAS, The Board of Trustees of said City of Glendale at its meeting of May 25th, 1909, by a vote of two-thirds of all its members, duly passed and adopted an Ordinance calling a special election and submitting to the qualified voters of said City the proposition of incurring a debt in the sum of Sixty Thousand Dollars, for the acquisition, construction and completion by said City of Glendale of Electric Light Works, and said Ordinance was approved by the Executive of said City, to-wit, the President of the Board of Trustees, on said 26th day of May, 1909, and said Ordinance was thereupon duly published once a week for two weeks in THE GLENDALE NEWS, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published less than six days a week in said City of Glendale; and

WHEREAS, Such special election was duly held on the 22d day of June, 1909, as provided by said Ordinance calling the same, and by law for holding municipal elections in said City; and the proposition of incurring a bonded indebtedness of Sixty Thousand Dollars for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing by said City of Glendale of Electric Light Works, received more than two-thirds of the votes of all the voters voting at such special election; and

WHEREAS, All and singular the provisions of the Act of the Legislature of the State of California entitled "An Act authorizing the incurring of indebtedness by Cities, Towns and Municipal Corporations for Municipal Improvements, and regulating the acquisition, construction or completion thereof," which became a law February 25th, 1901, together with all Amendments thereto, and the Law and Ordinances of said City have been fully complied with so as to authorize the issue of said bonds;

NOW, THEREFORE, The Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale do ordain as follows:

Section 1: That bonds of the said City of Glendale in the sum of Sixty Thousand Dollars be issued in accordance with the provisions of the Act of the Legislature of the State of California entitled "An Act authorizing the incurring of indebtedness by Cities, Towns and Municipal Corporations for municipal improvements, and regulating the acquisition, construction or completion thereof," which became a law February 25th, 1901, and the Amendments thereto, and with the Ordinances of said City; that said bonds shall be Eighty in number and Forty thereof shall be issued in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each, and Forty thereof in the denomination of Five Hundred Dollars each, and the principal and interest thereof shall be payable in lawful money of the United States. They shall be dated July 1st, 1909, and bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January, and on the first day of July, of every year.

Said Eighty bonds shall be payable in the manner following:

One-fortieth part of the whole amount of such indebtedness shall be paid on July 1st, 1910, and One-fortieth part of the whole amount of such indebtedness each and every year thereafter at the City Treasury of said City, together with the interest on all sums unpaid at such date, and said bonds shall be substantially in the following form, to-wit:

No. _____
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
CITY OF GLENDALE,
ELECTRIC LIGHT WORKS BOND.

Glendale, Cal., July 1st, 1909.

On the first day of July, A. D. (year of maturity), the City of Glendale, California, will pay to the bearer at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Glendale, the sum of (amount of said bond), with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and the first day of July, of each year, as specified in the interest coupons hereto attached, at the office of the City Treasurer, upon the presentation and surrender of said interest coupons. Principal and interest payable in lawful money of the United States. This bond is issued in pursuance of the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act authorizing the incurring of indebtedness by Cities, Towns and Municipal Corporations,

On the first day of _____ (month of maturity), A. D. _____ (year of maturity), the City of Glendale promises to pay the bearer, at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Glendale, the sum of (amount of interest) in lawful money of the United States, the semi-annual interest due on Electric Light Works Bond No. _____ (No. of bond to which coupon is attached).

Treasurer of the City of Glendale.

Section 2: That the President of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, being the Executive of the municipality, and the City Treasurer of said City are hereby authorized and directed to sign all the bonds herein provided for, and the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to countersign the same and to affix the corporate seal of the City of Glendale thereto, and the City Treasurer of said City is hereby authorized and directed to sign the interest coupons of said bonds, and said bonds shall be delivered by said City Clerk to said City Treasurer in such amounts as the Board of Trustees of said City may from time to time determine.

Section 3: That for the purpose of paying the principal and interest on such bonds the Board of Trustees of said City shall, at the time of fixing the general tax levy, and in the manner for such general tax levy provided, levy and collect annually each year until said bonds are paid, or until there shall be a sum in the Treasury of said City, set apart for that purpose, sufficient to meet all sums coming due for principal and interest on such bonds, a tax sufficient to pay the annual interest on such bonds, and also such part of principal thereof as shall become due before the time for fixing the next general tax levy.

Said tax shall be in addition to all other taxes levied for municipal purposes, and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other municipal taxes are collected, and be used for no other purpose than the payment of said bonds and accruing interest.

Section 4: The proceeds of the sale of said Electric Light Works Bonds shall be placed in the City Treasury to the credit of a fund to be known as the Electric Light Works Bond fund, and the same shall be applied exclusively to the purposes and objects mentioned in this ordinance.

Section 5: The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this Ordinance, and shall cause the same to be published once in the GLENDALE NEWS, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City, and thereupon and thereafter it shall be in full force and effect.

Monday evening, Mr. Edward Newell and son, Edward Newell, Jr., arrived in Tropico and will spend several weeks here. It is possible that Mr. Newell will locate here as he likes the locality very much.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Waller went in company with a number of friends of Los Angeles, to Mt. Wilson, Sunday.

The next meeting of the Thursday Afternoon Club of this place will be held at the home of Mrs. Harris on Central avenue next week. Mrs. William Bawerhyte of Los Angeles will be present and address the club. This will be the last meeting of the club before the disbanding for the summer and a large attendance is desired.

An ice cream social was given by the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon and evening. The affair was held beneath a large tent on the church grounds. Quite a large number from Tropico attended and the proceeds of the social went in the treasury of the Aid society. Ice cream and cake were served.

A pretty family dinner was held at the home of Mr. C. C. West on Central avenue, Monday. The repast was eaten out among the roses and beneath wide-spreading walnut trees. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs, Misses Catherine and Dorothy Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Ardy Stevenson and son, Dwight; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Logan and Miss Mary Logan, Mr. C. C. West.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Antibus, who were married recently in San Diego, arrived at this place Saturday and are sending some time with Mrs. Antibus' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sears of the San Fernando road. Mrs. Antibus will be better known as Miss Pearl Sears at this place. Upon leaving this place Mr. and Mrs. Antibus will leave for Seattle, where they will spend several weeks at the exposition.

Harry Hayward, Merrill Blain and Herbert Harrison entertained several of their young friends to an elaborate Fourth party at the home of Mr. Harrison at the corner of Columbus avenue and Christopher street, Monday evening. The affair lasted the whole evening and in all over fifty dollars worth of fireworks were discharged. The young people participating in the affair included Misses Dorothy and Catherine Hobbs, Mabel and Mary Evans Hough, Frances Anderson; Messrs. Raymond Barker, Dwight Stevenson, Harry Hayward and Herbert Harrison.

A merry beach party went from this place to Venice last Saturday, staying until Monday evening. A number of tents in "Tent City" were rented and the company spent the time in bathing and other amusements. Those numbered in the company were Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Lunn of Irwindale, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Davenport, Dr. and Mrs. A. O. Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bullis, Mr. and Mrs. William Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deal, Mr. and Mrs. John Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stine, Miss Evalena Ayers, Miss Blanche Davenport, Ray Borthick and Ray Goode. Mr. and Mrs. William Black spent Sunday with friends at Venice.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the entertainment which will be given by the Good Templars lodge of this valley in the G. A. R. hall next Wednesday evening, July 14th. The feature of the event will be the reproduction of the Weavers drill and fairy dance which will be given by the pupils of the students and graduating class of the Tropico grammar school. The following number will be rendered: Tropico trio, mandolin, violin and guitar, by Messrs. Guy and S. Jay Rice and Clarence Peck; vocal duet, "My Mother-in-Law," by Mrs. Joseph Marple and Joseph Marple, Jr.; Miss Pearl Harrison will render a vocal solo; readings by Miss Tyler of Los Angeles; tableaux by members of the order. Miss Crouse of Los Angeles will be accompanist for the evening. This entertainment is given for a good cause and everyone should assist.

MRS. ALICIA HICKOX DEAD.

Mrs. Alicia Hickox, who for the past year or more has been confined to her bed at her home on the east side of Tropico, died at her home at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The suffering which this lady was forced to endure during her illness cannot be expressed in words—it has to be experienced to be appreciated.

Mrs. Hickox was very well known here. For several years previous to her illness she was proprietor of the East Side grocery store of this place. Nearly every person in town knew of her illness and from time to time they called to express their sympathy and to inquire as to the condition of the sufferer. Her death was anything but unexpected. In fact, at several times during her illness it was thought that the end was near, but she rallied to live a little longer. During the past two weeks the sufferer had been so low that her death was expected at any time, and the fact that she lived as long as she did proved that her power of endurance was wonderful. She died of cancer.

Funeral services were held from the house at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. J. H. Henry, pastor of the Methodist church of this place. Interment was made at Forest Lawn cemetery at this place.

TROPICO CHURCH NOTES.

Presbyterian.

By Rev. Henderson C. Shoemaker.

Next Sunday evening a union service will be held between this church and the Methodist in the Methodist church on Palmer avenue. The sermon of the evening will be preached by Rev. Henderson C. Shoemaker, pastor of this church, who will take for his subject, "Sinai and Calvary." The service held last Sunday evening in our church was altogether delightful and the eloquent discourse delivered by Rev. J. H. Henry was greatly enjoyed by the large congregation.

Sunday morning will be communion service at our church and everyone is invited to partake with us at 11 o'clock. At this time reception of new members into the church will take place, and it is understood that about ten members will unite with the church at that time.

The Christian Endeavor Society of this church held an interesting monthly business meeting at the home of the pastor on Wednesday evening. The work in this endeavor is encouraging.

The Ladies' Aid Society of this church gave an ice cream festival Wednesday afternoon and evening. The affair was held on the church grounds beneath a large canopy of canvas.

Ralph Byram and wife of Glendale, spent part of the Fourth with Rev. and Mrs. Shoemaker at their pretty new home on Cypress avenue.

Mr. Shoemaker wishes it generally known that his telephone address is Sunset 2831.

Methodist.

By Rev. J. H. Henry.

Last Sunday the services were of a patriotic nature and "Old Glory" constituted the principal decoration. In the evening we united with the Presbyterian church and Rev. J. H. Henry preached the sermon. Next Sunday we will have the Holy Communion in the morning and in the evening the union service will be held in our church. The pastor of the Presbyterian church will preach the sermon. We hope to have a large attendance to greet Rev. Shoemaker on his first sermon at our church. Special music will be presented. The official board voted a month's vacation to the pastor which will be taken about the last of July.

DR. H. EARL REED MARRIED.

The rumor which came to the News correspondent last week as to the marriage of our genial physician, Dr. H. Earl Reed, has been verified as fact, that happy event having occurred in Riverside, June 18th, the 29th birthday anniversary of the groom. The bride was Miss Ethel Arline Strawn of that city.

The ceremony, which took place at high noon, was performed by Rev. H. E. Benton, pastor of the All Souls Universalist church, at his home, and was marked by a most impressive and solemn simplicity.

The home was beautifully decorated in a wealth of bridal flowers and greenery, and daylight being excluded, the mellow radiance of the softly-shaded lights of the chandelier gave an added seriousness to the occasion. The bride was charmingly gowned in soft silk of delicate pink, the flowers which she carried being carnations of the same shade, with maiden hair fern.

Quoting from the Riverside Press: "The bride, daughter of Mrs. Florence Strawn, is a girl of charming personality, who, during her four years' residence in this city, has won a host of friends, whose best wishes will follow her to her new home.

"After July 1st, Dr. and Mrs. Reed will be at home to their friends in Los Angeles, where the groom is a prominent young physician."

The News joins Dr. Reed's many friends in this place in offering most hearty congratulations and in wishing them both happiness and prosperity.

We understand that the doctor contemplates building in Glendale. We trust this, also, may prove true as the quiet, but sterling worth which has built up so large a practice, both in Los Angeles and here, during the past three years, is the kind which we are glad to have locate among us. Mrs. Reed would doubtless receive a most cordial welcome from Glendale's people.

How He Worked the Artist.

This account of how an intimate friend of the great artist Kiyosal obtained one of the painter's drawings is from Mrs. Hugh Frazer's "Letters From Japan."

Kiyosal always refused if asked outright for a sketch. So his friend began the negotiation by offering the artist an excellent dinner. When Kiyosal had drunk deeply and seemed in a mellow humor his host called for drawing materials, saying that he felt an artistic fancy taking possession of him. No one was surprised, as Japanese gentlemen often amuse themselves in this way after a feast. The servant then brought an enormous sheet of white paper and spread it on the floor with the brushes and Indian ink beside it. The crafty host, without looking at his guest, sank on his knees and began to draw, apparently absorbed in his occupation, but intentionally producing weak and incoherent lines. Kiyosal watched the feeble effort in silence and growing irritation, and at last jumped up, dashed the brush aside and tore the brush out of his hand, exclaiming: "Out of the way, you wretched bungler! I will teach you how to draw!" And the result was a priceless sketch, which remained in the possession of the wily entertainer.

A Max O'Rell Story.

Before he attained fame with his various books M. Blouet (Max O'Rell), who was for several years French master at St. Paul's school, related how he obtained his post here. After two or three earlier applicants had returned unsuccessful from their interview with Dr. Walker, who was at the time headmaster of the school, M. Blouet's turn came.

"I want," said the doctor after a few words, "a French master who can preserve discipline. My last was a perfect gentleman and a good fellow, but he could not keep the classes in order. The end of it was that after being much worried by one of the boys the poor fellow went home and shot himself."

"Sir," replied Max O'Rell, "that is where my countryman made a little mistake. I should have shot the boy."

The doctor rose, says M. Blouet, and grasped my hand.

"M. Blouet," he exclaimed, "you are my French master!"—London Captain.

Tips Costlier Than Treats.

They were going out of the Waldorf when he saw her look so longingly in at the big, beautiful roomful of white tables laden with roses that he said, "Will you go in and have a cup of tea or something?"

She assented willingly.

"Your hat and overcoat, sir," said the waiter firmly. "You are not allowed to sit in here with your overcoat on."

"But," objected he, "I shall stay only a few minutes."

"No matter, sir," said the waiter and took his hat and overcoat with an air of determination and disappeared.

"That's the third time," sighed he, "that I have started to go home, met somebody and parted from my hat and coat to treat them. If it happens again the tips to the waiters for keeping my hat and coat will amount to more than the sum I have paid for the treats."—New York Press.

A Bad Mixup.

"Say," remarked one government clerk to another, "I'm up against it good and proper."

"What's the trouble?" queried a c. c. No. 2.

"I got two medical certificates from two different doctors yesterday," explained the party of the first part. "One was a certificate of health for a life insurance company, and the other was a certificate of illness to be sent to my chief with a petition for two weeks' leave of absence."

"Oh, that's nothing," rejoined his fellow clerk, "I've done that myself."

"Yes," continued the other, "but I mixed the certificates in mailing. The health certificate went to the insurance company and the certificate of good health went to my chief. See?"—Chicago News.

A Threatening Comet.

M. Camille Flammarion, the great scientist, after many years of study, arrived at the conclusion that the world will in the twenty-fifth century come across the path of the comet Beila. On this occasion a collision will take place, and Beila being infinitely greater than the earth, a shock may be expected which, he calculates, will be 865 times greater than the shock caused by the collision between two trains, each traveling at sixty-five miles an hour.

TOWN OF GOLD BRICKS.

Wealth Found in the Walls of Mexican Adobe Houses.

There are many remarkable towns in Mexico, but none more interesting than Guanajuato, "the hill of the frog." It might more properly be called the "gold brick town," for the houses have been found to contain much gold.

This is a curious situation, but it came about naturally. Guanajuato—pronounced Wah-nah-wah-to—is one of the oldest mining towns in Mexico, but the value of the place as a town was discovered when a railroad company decided to build a station there. It was found necessary to tear down about 300 adobe buildings, which were made of the refuse of various mines after the ore was extracted.

When it became known that the old adobe buildings would be torn down pieces taken at random were assayed. It was found that because of the old process, which left much gold and silver, they assayed from $3 to $24 a ton. The mean value was estimated to run about $8 gold a ton.

The old buildings have brought about $30,000 Mexican, in gold, and persons who have built since the new machinery has been installed in the mines are bemoaning the fact that the new houses do not contain as much gold as the old.—Scientific American.

USE OF PILLOWS.

A Habit That Is Unnecessary and at Times May Be Harmful.

"Pillows are little more than a fad and a rather harmful one at that," said a Germantown doctor. "They should, indeed, only be used by those who sleep on their sides, as they are really injurious to others. When you sleep on your side your shoulder prevents your head from lying level on the bed, and pillows are useful to raise the head to this level."

"The natural and most healthful position for the ordinary person in sleeping is for one's head to be kept perfectly even, just as it would be standing up. Now, for the one who lies on his back while sleeping no pillow is needed to keep the head in this position, and yet 90 per cent of the persons who sleep on their backs use pillows, while those who sleep on their sides use far more pillow than is necessary."

"People get used to having their heads and shoulders propped high up and imagine they could not sleep any other way; but, as a matter of fact, if they would try sleeping with little or no pillow they would not only find that they would feel better in the morning, but also would actually be more comfortable in bed and sleep much sounder throughout the night."—Philadelphia Record.

At the Head.

It is stated in Mr. and Mrs. Pennell's "Life of James MacNeill Whistler" in that part which relates to his brief West Point career that the great American painter was not "soldierly in appearance, bearing or habit." Whistler's horsemanship is said to have been hardly better than his scholarship. According to General Webb, it was not wholly unusual for him at cavalry drill to go sliding over his horse's head. On such occasions Major Sackett, then in command, would call out:

"Mr. Whistler, aren't you a little ahead of the squad?"

According to Whistler's version to the Pennells, Major Sackett's remark was:

"Mr. Whistler, I am pleased to see you for once at the head of your class."
